

JEF EDITORIAL POLICY

AIMS AND SCOPE

The Journal of Economic and Financial Sciences (JEF) is a research journal hosted by the Faculty of Economic and Financial Sciences, University of Johannesburg, South Africa, and it is published semi-annually in April and October.

The JEF publishes theoretical and empirical research in the field of Economic and Financial Sciences. Manuscripts published in the JEF fall mostly in the areas of auditing, corporate finance, corporate governance, economics, econometrics, financial accounting, financial management, financial planning, investment management, management accounting and taxation.

Opinions expressed in the JEF are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect those of the Faculty of Economic and Financial Sciences or those of the University of Johannesburg.

SUBMISSION OF MANUSCRIPTS

Manuscripts should be submitted electronically in Microsoft® Office Word 2000 or later format via email to the JEF Secretariat at elsien@uj.ac.za. The submission of manuscripts in PDF format is not permitted. Please do not fax any submissions to the editorial committee.

The specific style requirements for preparing manuscripts are provided below.

AUTHORSHIP

All individuals listed as an author of a manuscript should have participated in conceptualising the research or content of the manuscript, in writing or critically editing the manuscript, and/or in the analysis of data presented in the manuscript. All authors should be thoroughly familiar with the substance of the final manuscript and be able to defend its conclusions. Individuals who have made subsidiary contributions may be listed in a section called Acknowledgments.

ORIGINALITY

All manuscripts must be original. No manuscript will be considered which has already been published or is being considered by another journal. When work described in conference proceedings is substantially revised and extended, it will however be considered for publication. By submitting a manuscript, the author(s) certify that the article is not being considered for publication nor has it been published elsewhere.

REVIEW PROCESS

All manuscripts will be sent for blind peer reviewing to two anonymous reviewers. A decision about acceptance, revision or rejection is sent to the corresponding author. Manuscripts not accepted for publication will not be returned to the author. Original artwork, photographs or other illustrations will not be returned unless the author specifically requests this when submitting a manuscript. Manuscripts that are neither accepted nor rejected may be returned to the author(s) with suggestions for revision. Such manuscripts may require revisions before a decision is made regarding acceptability for publication.

COPY EDITING

After an article is accepted, it will be edited by the JEF editorial and production staff to conform to the JEF publication style and standards. Authors are responsible for all statements made and calculations provided in their published articles, including changes made in the process of copy editing. The edited manuscript will be sent to the corresponding author for a review and an approval prior to publication.

PAGE FEES

A non-refundable submission fee of ZAR100 is payable. Cheques must be made payable to the University of Johannesburg. On acceptance of a manuscript, authors will be required to pay page fees of ZAR50 per page.

CORRESPONDENCE

Any correspondence may be addressed to The Managing Editor at gels@uj.ac.za or to:

The Managing Editor: Prof G Els
Journal of Economic and Financial Sciences
University of Johannesburg
PO Box 524
AUCKLAND PARK
2006.

INSTRUCTIONS TO AUTHORS

Technical requirements

Manuscripts should be formatted to the specifications outlined below. Manuscripts that deviate significantly from the specified format will be returned to the author(s) without being reviewed. Preparation of a manuscript in the format described below will improve the likelihood that the manuscript will be rated favourably by the reviewers. In general, authors should avoid making their manuscripts stand out as different by preparing them in unusual or unconventional formats.

Manuscripts should reflect writing proficiency and the correct use of syntax, grammar, spelling and symbols to ensure the transmission of accurate information. Text should avoid sexual and racial bias, and gender-inclusive language should be used whenever possible.

Specific requirements are:

- ☞ Language – manuscripts in either English or Afrikaans may be submitted. If a manuscript is submitted in Afrikaans, the manuscript abstract needs to be in English.
- ☞ Abbreviations – the use of abbreviations in manuscripts should be kept to a minimum and abbreviations must be explained when they first appear, after which they may be used without an explanation.
- ☞ Length – manuscripts, written in English or Afrikaans, must be typed using Microsoft® Office Word 2000 or later format, 1½ spaced, and should not exceed twenty-five (25) pages, including the abstract and keywords list, tables, figures and references. Manuscripts longer than 25 pages will be returned to the author for revision.
- ☞ Justification – manuscripts should be produced with full justification. Use one space after the period (full stop) at the end of each sentence in the text.
- ☞ Spelling – please use of English UK spelling when preparing manuscripts, for example behaviour, not behavior.
- ☞ Typeface – manuscripts should be typed in Times New Roman 12 pt font. Do not use pre-formatted paragraphing.
- ☞ Page numbers – Page numbers should be inserted at the bottom of each page of the manuscript.
- ☞ Headers and footers – The manuscript should not include a running header or footer. To ensure anonymity and facilitate a blind review process, the name of the author(s) should not appear anywhere on the manuscript, but on the title page.

- ☞ Tables and figures – The formatting of tables and figures is left largely to the author(s). All tables and figures should have a title, table/figure number(s) and a source. Graphics should be rendered clearly so as to yield attractive, readable black-and-white copies. All tables and figures should be included in the manuscript.
- ☞ End notes and footnotes – The use of end/footnotes are not permitted and will be deleted from the manuscript. If the Editor cannot readily remove any end/footnotes, the manuscript will be returned to the author(s) for revision.
- ☞ In-text citations/references – The Harvard Method of referencing should be used throughout the manuscript. All statements, opinions, conclusions, etc. taken from another author's work should be cited, whether the work is directly quoted, paraphrased or summarised. Direct quotations from publications should be avoided and are only permissible in exceptional circumstances when the specific quotation is so succinct and vivid that the text can be materially enhanced by the quotation. References should be inserted in the text by indicating in brackets the name of the author(s) and the year of publication of the quotation, e.g. ... Candy (1995) states that ... or ... for these purposes (Candy, 1995). If reference is made to a specific page, a semicolon follows the year of publication (no spaces), followed by the page number (again, no spaces), e.g. ... Candy (1995:214) states that ... or ... for these purposes (Candy, 1995:214). If the specific author has more than one publication in any one year, the articles are distinguished by inserting the letters a, b, etc. after the year of publication, e.g. ... Candy (1995a:214) states that ... In referring to a work by three or more authors, all the relevant names have to be furnished in the first reference to the work in the text, e.g. ... of the authority (Riesman, Denney & Glazer, 1968). In later references to this work, only the first author's name is stated, and the abbreviation 'et al.' is used, e.g. ... the modern Western man (Riesman, et al. 1968:40).
- ☞ References – In the case of articles in journals, details of each article should appear in the bibliography in the following sequence: Author, A.A.; Author, B.B. & Author, C.C. (2004). Title of article. Title of periodical, x(x), pp. xx-xx. In the case of books, details of each book should appear in the bibliography in the following sequence: Author, A.A.; Author, B.B. & Author, C.C. (2004) Title of work. Location: Publisher. The reference list is not subdivided into sections for books, journals, papers, etc. If an italic typeface is not available, titles should be underlined. The citation of Internet sites should be used with care. The use of web-sites of major organisations and government agencies is acceptable as the maintenance of these sites is likely to be durable over time. Web-site citations should be complete, i.e. rather than citing the main home page of an organisation, authors should cite the specific URL on which the pertinent material is located e.g.: Author, A.A., Author, B.B. & Author, C.C. (2004). Title of article. Title of periodical, x(x), pp. xx-xx. Available: URL address (Accessed on day Month year) OR Author, A.A. (2006). Title of work. [On-line] Available: URL address (Accessed on day, Month, year).

Style requirements

All manuscripts should be submitted in the following sequence: title page, abstract and keywords, text, list of references, figures and tables.

- ☞ Title page: The title page of each manuscript should include (i) the title of the manuscript. Limit manuscript titles to 75 characters in length. Titles should be descriptive and summarise the most important point of the manuscript. Should the title be longer than 75 characters, a running title also needs to be provided which may be used for editorial purposes. (ii) first author's title, name(s) and surname; and (iii) second author's title, name(s) and surname. Clearly indicate the details of the corresponding author; (iv) name and address of the institution(s) from which the work originated. This page will be removed before the manuscript is sent for the blind review process.
- ☞ Abstract & keywords: The page following the title page should include (i) the title of the manuscript but not the author's name; (ii) a brief, one paragraph abstract of a maximum of 150 words describing the article; and (iii) a minimum of 5 keywords. Keywords chosen should capture the essence of the paper. List the keywords in decreasing order below the abstract. Keywords will be used as an electronic index of the paper. Please ensure that abstracts are free of any identification of the author(s), affiliations and acknowledgements.

- ☞ Text: The text of the article should begin on a new page following the abstract and keywords. When referring to figures and/or tables, each figure and table should be mentioned in the text in bold typeface and numbered consecutively. Each figure should have a unique caption and should be numbered consecutively in bold typeface, e.g. FIGURE 1: Occupancy rates, 2001. Tables used should be self-explanatory and concise, and should not duplicate material presented in the text. Tables should include labels and explanatory notes sufficient to permit readers to understand them without reference to the text. Each table should be numbered consecutively in bold typeface, e.g. TABLE 1: Percentage growth in GDP, 2001 - 2005. When using mathematical expressions (e.g. formulae) in the manuscript, these should be typed exactly as they should appear in print. Mathematical expression should be numbered and these appear in parentheses (bold typeface) flush with the right margin.
- ☞ References: References in the text should appear as explained in the technical requirements section. The reference section should be on a separate page at the end of the text and emphasis should be placed on more recent publications. It is the responsibility of the author(s) to verify all references. In the Harvard System, the references are listed in alphabetical order of authors' surnames. For more information, please refer to the Instructions for authors: Technical requirements section.